

THE V RAMACHANDRAN AWARDS FOR EXCELLENCE IN URBAN DECENTRALISATION

IN RECOGNITION OF GROUND-BREAKING WORK IN DECENTRALISATION IN INDIA'S CITIES AND TOWNS

— 2018-2019 —

JANAAGRAHA CENTRE FOR CITIZENSHIP & DEMOCRACY

BACKGROUND

Mr. V Ramachandran (1931-2015) was a distinguished member of the Indian Administrative Service and one of India's finest civil servants. He received the Padma Bhushan for meritorious civil service in 2008. After a distinguished career in Delhi and in his home state, Kerala, he retired as the Chief Secretary to the Government of Kerala in 1989. Mr Ramachandran was one of India's most eminent advocates of decentralisation to local bodies. He also played a seminal role as a Member of the Second Administrative Reforms Commission in pushing the envelope on administrative reforms in India, and especially on decentralisation to local bodies. He was also a Member of the Governing Board of Janaagraha Centre for Citizenship and Democracy.

MISSION STATEMENT

More than two decades have passed since the enactment of the 74th Constitution Amendment Act, but decentralisation continues to be a crucial governance reform agenda in India. This is more so in the urban context given how Panchayati Raj has marched far ahead of Nagara Raj, and the rapid urbanisation that India is witnessing, with 50% of India's population expected to be in urban areas by 2050. These Awards in the name of Mr V Ramachandran, a doyen of decentralisation, are being instituted in recognition of ground-breaking work in decentralisation in the urban context by State Governments, Municipalities (all categories of Urban Local Bodies), Civic Agencies, State Election Commissions and State Finance Commissions. The Awards seek to recognise outstanding work that either enables decentralisation in cities through laws, policies and institutions or operationalizes decentralisation in cities through execution and implementation. Rather than reward past achievements, it seeks to identify and honour present accomplishments that germinate far-reaching impact.

AWARDS

The Awards shall be called 'The V Ramachandran Awards for Excellence in Urban Decentralisation'. They will be awarded in five categories – Best State, Best Municipality, Best Civic Agency, Best State Election Commission and Best State Finance Commission.

One winner and two runners-up will be awarded under each category.

The application window will be open from 1st November, 2018 to 30th April, 2019. Applications can be submitted online at - <http://www.janaagraha.org/vramachandranawards>

ABOUT MR V RAMACHANDRAN

V Ramachandran was born in Tamil Nadu on 21 March 1931. He obtained his Master's degree in Arts (MA) and Sciences (MSc) from the University of Madras before securing a Master's degree in Public Administration from Harvard University. He entered the Indian Administrative Service in 1954 to start a 35-year-long Civil Service which lasted till 1989, during which time he held several positions of note in the Central and State administrations. After the initial posting, he served as a District Collector, Finance Secretary and the Chairman of public sector undertakings such as Kerala State Electricity Board, Kerala State Industrial Development Corporation, prior to his posting as the Chief Secretary of the state, a post he held till his retirement in 1989. In between, he also had two stints outside Kerala cadre; the first as a Joint Secretary at the Prime Minister's secretariat during the tenures of Indira Gandhi and Morarji Desai from 1972 to 1978, with the responsibility of Science and Technology and Economic Affairs and the second as the Vice-Chairman of the United Nations Committee on Right to Development from 1980 to 1984.

After his retirement from Civil Service, Ramachandran was again called to Government service in 1991 as the Advisor to the Governor of Tamil Nadu under President's rule. Thereafter, the Government of Kerala invited him to accept the position of the Vice-Chairman of Kerala State Planning Board, a post holding the rank of a cabinet minister; he had earlier served the Board as a member during his Civil Service years. He held the post for two non-concurrent five year terms. It was during this period, he drafted a report on democratic decentralisation which was reported to have earned him the moniker, 'father of democratic decentralisation' in India. He chaired an Expert Group on Participatory Planning which deliberated on the concept of Panchayati Raj and proposed measures which were later taken up by the state as well as other regions in India. While serving as the Vice-Chair of the Planning Board during his first term, he also served as the Director of Rajiv Gandhi Foundation (1992–1996) and as a member of its Task Force on Panchayati Raj.

Ramachandran was associated with several UN agencies which included United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, United Nations Human Settlements Programme, United Nations Economic and Social Council and United Nations Development Programme. He was a member of the National Dairy Development Board and the Governing Board of Institute of Rural Management Anand and was also part of the Central Water Commission and the second Administrative Reforms Commission of the Government of India, the last of which he chaired for a while when the Commission Chairman Veerappa Moily resigned from the post in 2009. He was a member of the Governing Board of the Centre for Development Studies and Sree Uthradam Thirunal Institute of Culture and served as the President of the Regional Cancer Association, Thiruvananthapuram and as the Chairman of the Centre for Management Development, Thiruvananthapuram.

Ramachandran was a recipient of the third highest Indian civilian honor, the Padma Bhushan, which he received in 2008. He was married to Padma Ramachandran, one of the first woman Indian Administrative Service officers and the first woman Chief Secretary of Kerala. Towards the later days of his life, the couple resided in Bengaluru and it was here that, he died on 1 December 2015.
